Sudbury's Women's Barbershop Chorus, Nickel City Sound Releases First Video Project

Sudbury, ON – Dec. 3, 2020. Nickel City Sound, a local women's barbershop chorus, has released its first virtual video project, "Best Day of My Life", having spent the majority of the fall learning the song and preparing video clips for inclusion. The song was selected in order to raise spirits and remind ourselves of the joy of singing. The video will be included as part of a Christmas presentation being planned for Eastlink Cable (time and dates to be determined). It has also been released on social media and the Nickel City Sound website.

Co-Directors, Martha Walli and Jennifer Huss, say: We have enjoyed learning the song and hope that the cheerful message and toe-tapping rhythm will rub off on the listener. It's our gift of harmony to Sudbury.

Pandemic protocols have made singing in a choir challenging, but Nickel City Sound only took a beat to regroup. With the support of their parent organization, Harmony Incorporated, weekly rehearsals on Zoom resumed, and were supplemented by education classes and even a virtual convention in November. Inspired by other virtual choirs, the chorus selected the American Authors song arrangement by Larry Wright, and enlisted Sudbury's Tess Dufour for video editing. This first foray into cyberspace came with a steep learning curve, but Nickel City Sound members understand that we are stronger together and need to do what it takes to keep on singing.
